

How Sixth Sense Harmonizers Work

Sixth Sense harmonizers are carefully constructed for each individual purchaser, making each one unique.

The most important ingredient in each harmonizer is the actual process of construction. Our harmonizers are hand-assembled by us, professional geomancers, not mass-produced by machine. Our assembly process relies heavily upon intent.

Princeton and Stanford researchers have proven time and again that intent can change measurable physical aspects.

In some experiments, it was found that those who were able to achieve the most significant responses in altering physical conditions were couples; those who had a close relationship, combining male and female energies.

This is where the superiority of our harmonizers becomes clear. Our metaphysical practice has developed our intent to much greater effectiveness than most people's. Added to that is the fact that we work together as a couple, which increases our effectiveness even more.

The harmonizer's proprietary design combines a variety of specifically determined materials; metals, salts, minerals and other unique elements like the Resonance Tuner™. These elements hold our specific, strongly focused intent for each client applied during their construction. The intent is stored at the quantum level within the device.

When placed in your environment, this encapsulated and focused intent spreads and builds throughout, permeating it continually. The conflicting energies in the environment are subjected to this continual 'tuning' and respond by becoming balanced and harmonized. Due to the quantum nature of the construction, the intent does not dissipate, but remains steady.

Also, again due to the quantum aspect, any upgrades to the design are automatically transferred to all existing models, thus ensuring that even the earliest models are as effective as the most recent.

In other words, by combining our natural abilities, which are powered more strongly because of our expertise and our relationship, by anchoring that intent into a specially designed mechanism made just for that purpose, and by focusing just on you during its construction, we tune your harmonizer to you and your environment in a way which no other device on the market can hope to match.

(For a complete understanding and explanation of the variety of ways in which intent can be examined and understood, see 'The Intention Experiment' by Lynne McTaggart)

For more details, visit www.professional-house-clearing.com/harmonizers.html.

Email: info@sixthsenseconsulting.com